Fares change rapidly, and even travel experts find it difficult to keep up. The changing situation is due to many factors, including increased competition. As a general rule, the less you pay for the ticket, the more restrictions you can expect. If you are trying to save money, look for excursion fares. These are the airline's equivalent of a special sale. Most excursion fares are for round-trip travel and have strict regulations and a minimum and maximum length of stay, so don't count on extending your vacation or staying less time than required. However, once you are on the plane, you are indistinguishable from passengers who paid higher fares.
