It was 11 p.m. and Kelly walked out of her bakery. She turned and looked at her store one last time. Before it was bakery, this place used to be a small coffee shop. Kelly worked in the shop as a waitress. But taking orders was never her dream; baking was. When she knew her boss planned to sell the shop, she borrowed money and bought it. Kelly's bakery had been open for thirty years, but she did not want her business in a stranger's hands, so after some serious thinking, she decided to close it.
