Without a doubt, the global COVID-19 outbreak brought (about) a lot of changes to the world in (the year) 2020. Everything from the ways we work, shop, and even date has been altered by the global pandemic and resulting lockdowns. Of course, some of these changes have not been positive, including job losses and the closing of long-standing businesses. However, one of the positive things to emerge out of the pandemic has been the resurgence in the popularity of bicycles.
